Overview for Tribal Lead Agencies

Health and Safety Requirements Overview

This resource provides an overview of the health and safety requirements for Tribes who administer Child Care and Development Fund (CCDF) programs. Tribal Lead Agencies must demonstrate full implementation of these requirements in their Tribal CCDF Plans. The health and safety requirements include the requirement for Tribal Lead Agencies with small, medium, and large allocation sizes to define, develop, and implement health and safety standards in effect for any CCDF provider receiving CCDF funds. Additionally, Tribal Lead Agencies need to ensure training and professional development on the required health and safety standards is implemented. Tribal Lead Agencies also need to have monitoring and enforcement processes in place to ensure that standards are being met and training requirements are being completed. Finally, Tribal Lead Agencies must ensure the comprehensive background check requirements are met. These components of standards, training, monitoring, and comprehensive background checks make up your comprehensive CCDF health and safety system.

All Tribal Lead Agencies must certify that health and safety requirements that are in effect are applicable to providers serving CCDF children and that those requirements are under Tribal, local, or state law. The table below lists the health and safety requirements for Tribes in the 2016 CCDF Final Rule.

Additional health and safety requirements include:

- ◆ Tribal Lead Agencies must establish standards appropriate to the age of children served and the type of care setting on the following:
  - Staff-child ratios;
  - Group size, and
  - Caregiver qualifications.
- ◆ Tribes must ensure that all child care staff members, prospective staff members, contracted staff members of ALL providers receiving CCDF funds meet the comprehensive background check requirements under the 2016 final rule.

Note: Tribal Lead Agencies may choose to exempt relative care providers from some or all of the health and safety requirements, provided that the relative care providers meet the definition of relative under the CCDF final rule AND that those relatives provide care ONLY to related children. All Tribal Lead Agencies also have the flexibility to submit an alternative monitoring approach and/or alternative approach to meet the criminal background checks, subject to approval from the Administration for Children and Families.
